Manager's comments

- Emerging markets fell in April with global markets as concerns about the sovereign debt crisis in the Eurozone resurfaced.
- Emerging Asia held up the best, while Latin America underperformed on Brazilian weakness.
- At a sector level, the Consumer sectors and Telecom Services outperformed while Energy and Materials lagged.
- We bought Unilever (Consumer Staples), an emerging market dominated multinational, to replace some exposure to its highly valued Indian subsidiary.
- We sold China Resources Enterprise (Consumer Discretionary) on valuation concerns.
- The best quality companies in emerging markets look close to fully valued.
- This only increases the emphasis it is necessary to place on conservative debt levels, predictable earnings and steady cash flows.
- High quality Consumer Staples companies are expensive at present and we see much more attractive valuations in Developed Market parent companies, some of which derive well over half of their revenues from emerging markets.

Important Information / Risk Factors:

Past performance is not a guide to future performance, and investment markets and conditions can change rapidly. If your fund invests in equity markets, it will be more volatile than an investment in cash or fixed deposits. The value of your investment may go down as well as up. There is no guarantee you will get back the amount invested. If your fund invests in overseas markets, currency movements may affect both the income received and the capital value of your investment. If it invests in the shares of small companies, in emerging markets, or in a single country or sector, it may be less liquid and more volatile than a broadly diversified fund investing in developed equity markets. This fund should be considered a long-term investment. You should read the fund's Prospectus before investing, including in particular the sections on the risk factors applicable to any investment. The views expressed herein should not be relied upon when making investment decisions.
